INTRODUCTION

Currently, society pays special attention to sports practices, where the demands are increasingly greater in search of excellence in the different disciplines. One of the areas with the most growth and demand is soccer. Discipline that has expanded the mechanisms to ensure success in the competition. If you want to be part of the staff in charge of further raising the technical and logistical capacity of the teams, our Master in Scouting and Video Analysis is an excellent option that will provide you with the necessary tools to analyze the potential in each of the elements and hierarchies of the strategies to follow.

The Scouting Football and Video Analysis Master is an innovative program based on the latest trends in the sporting world, which will facilitate the comprehensive training of the participant to broadly develop a professional profile. You can collectively analyze the 4 main moments of the game, and also the ABP (Standing Ball Association) of both teams involved in the football competition.

It is aimed at:

- Coaches who have football experience.
- Coaches who are certified.
- Graduates or Graduates in the Sciences of Physical Activity and Sports.

Each one of the lines of action of the program is destined to attract and develop talent and aptitude within football.

DEFINITION

We will start by defining what is scouting in soccer. Scouting sports soccer will have the ability to handle and interpret the most current scouting software or program, to analyze the internal and external structure of the clubs. In addition, the curriculum is structured with a broad and complete theoretical and practical content, which will allow the participant to acquire the necessary concepts to execute the required interpretation, thus optimizing the performance of the team.

An innovation in this Master in soccer scouting is video analysis. This add-on allows you to make cuts in the videos to join or extract the necessary parts, thus carrying out complex and detailed studies of the opponent's moves, which lead to planning improved strategies. Each play can be viewed in depth to determine the techniques applied, thus determining which ones should be deepened and which ones to change.

Today, the great teams of international stature are based on applications for soccer scouting, and on all its conceptualization and tools to take advantage of their opponent. For this reason, soccer scouting is considered a highly demanded and rapidly rising profession.

OBJECTIVES

Our course has as main objectives, to develop in our students strategic thinking for analysis and research, which generates a specialized football scouting report.

But also, create the necessary conditions to comply with the context set out by the directive based on the season or cycle of competition; providing the basic information necessary to ensure the success of the team.

It is not a simple Master of Football Scouting and Video Analysis, this goes further. Since the graduates of the race will be able to carry out, from the video analysis of the plays, the reflection to achieve the established purpose with the lowest cost, and in the most favorable average time for the Club. All this with the management of the latest apps, programs or software available. Which will translate into human and economic performance and profit.

The best thing about our scouting career in soccer is that it is based on the most advanced applications based on the high performance of the discipline.

Determining each tactic of the own team and the opposite. The skill is also applicable to futsal.
